Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

My son has this phone and it is important that I be able to afford this phone so I can keep my close to me and safe by the use of this phone. People work hard for the money they make and everything else is so expensive that people cant afford the every day luxuries that might kepp our children safe. Think about the ways these phones are helpful and think twice about making thsi too expensive to afford.
Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,

Tonya Teague
